Week's news in a nutshell

President Ford ran like a Model T in New Hampshire but still managed to squeeze by Ronald Reagan, 51 per cent of the county going to the winner. For the Democrats, Jimmy Carter, former Georgia governor, jumped out in the front and stayed there, winning handily with 29 per cent in a field of 10. Second among the Demos was Rep. Morris K. Udall with 24 per cent. Now the action centers in Massachusetts and Vermont, where primaries are set for next Tuesday, and in Florida, March 9. An attempt to have a meaningful Democratic write-in for John Connally apparently flopped badly, but Senator Hubert Humphrey beat some of the regular Democratic campaigners, also as a write-in. It will take weeks before the handwriting appears on the wall.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen visited Georgetown on Monday and spoke with Southwestern students, local businessmen and city officials in his reelection campaign for the United States Senate.

The SUN was authorized this week to announce the candidacies of two more aspirants to the Georgetown City Council. William H. (Bill) Luedicke III and Clyde C. Woerner both filed to run for a Council slot. Mayor D. W. Scott and Councilman J. D. Winger have already announced, making the race for two City Council seats inhabited by four contestants.

The flowers around the County Courthouse are now in the hands of the Georgetown Garden Club, it was decided at a meeting of the county commissioners Monday. The Garden Club may be planning a little something in red, white and blue flowers for the bicentennial. Before you know it, we'll be mistaking the Square for a Presidential inauguration!

TAYLOR WILL HAVE an election of city commissioners April 3, to fill places now occupied by Billy Banks, Calvin Janak and Dr. R. C. Hermann, whose terms are expiring.

Round Rock is getting everything in readiness for its annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Monday, 7 p.m., at the high school, with economist and U.S. Senatorial candidate, Dr. Phil Gramm of Texas A&M University, as the speaker. Larry Jackson will retire as Chamber president, handing his authority to president-elect Bob Vincent. Round Rock's Outstanding Citizen for 1975 will be presented during the program.

THE PATTY HEARST trial continued, with sentiment apparently going against the defendant during the latter part of the week. Prosecution was able to show she hadn't been an admirable person even before she was kidnapped, evidently impressing the jurors.

A&M WON'T use the wishbone next year. Instead, Coach Ballard, who invented the wishbone, will favor a formation with two running backs.

Brother Bill: Weir spoiled me

by Linda Searbrough

Not long ago, a young University of Texas ministerial student was welcomed into the village of Weir. He was the new Baptist preacher.

Every other Sunday in 1955 and 1956, the young man would arrive at the old white frame church which was shared by the local Methodists and Baptists, and give one of his "talks." His wife Judith would play the piano during hymn-singing. After church, they would play games with the children, visit with the parishioners and eat a sumptuous Sunday dinner with their friends in Weir.

Bill Moyers has traveled many miles since those days — to the Peace Corps, where he was deputy director; to the White House in Washington, D.C., where he was Lyndon Johnson's press secretary; and to New York, where he was editor of Newsday and launched "Bill Moyers' Journal," a superb weekly television documentary shown on the Public Broadcasting Service — but his heart is still in Williamson County.

"Those few years," said Moyers in his New York office, "left me forever spoiled by the depth of affection and by the intimacy of the relationship between my wife and I and the good people of Weir. In a way you might say that they ruined me."

"There were no saints at Weir," said Moyers. "They were country people in the best sense of the word. They gossiped, they quarreled, and they made up."

"These salt-of-the-earth people reached out to us in a way that, even in the frenetic sophistication of New York and the calculated detachment of Washington, I've never forgotten. They've made it impossible for me to forget my roots."

Moyers was born in Hugo, Oklahoma, but moved to Texas when he was still in diapers — and still considers himself thoroughly a Texan. He grew up in Marshall, where his father was a time clerk in a defense plant and his mother worked in a funeral home. In high school, Billy Don Moyers worked part-time on the Marshall News-Messenger, was a cheerleader and a member of the band, and worked on The Parrot, his high school newspaper.

He graduated with honors and went to North Texas State College, where he was twice the top student, and twice class president. More important, he met Judith Davidson, a Dallas freshman, on the first day of school. They would marry two years later.

In 1954, between Moyers' sophomore and junior years in college, he wrote Lyndon Johnson a letter, reminding the Senator of the importance of the youth vote and offering his services in Johnson's 1954 re-election campaign. Johnson responded with an offer of a summer job for Moyers in LBJ's Washington office.

At the end of that summer, Johnson urged Moyers to transfer from North Texas State to the University of Texas, and to help make ends meet, offered Moyers a job at the KTBC television station in Austin.

And Weir met the Moyers.

"Oh, he was a very special person — and Judith was wonderful," said Mrs. Tom Bohanan of Weir. "He came up here every Saturday afternoon for a visit, and then Sunday morning he'd come back and preach. Bill visited the Methodists as well as the Baptists."

"He was just so kind and considerate, all the time. Mrs. King, who is now in the Sweetbriar Nursing Home in Georgetown, used to have a big old house in town. Well, every Saturday he'd carry firewood to be sure that she had enough wood on her porch, so the house wouldn't get cold."

County pays $156,811 for EMS service

Williamson County paid $156,811.32 on service expenditures and payments of contracts for countywide ambulance service for 1975, according to a recent report from the county auditor's office.

"I WOULD SAY about two-thirds of the money spent went for nonexpendable items," said emergency medical service director James Simonson.

One major capital outlay involved payments of $18,850 to Taylor Motor Company of Taylor and $33,851.20 to A. G. Solar & Company of Dallas. Three ambulances were purchased from each of the two companies. The price variations were explained by Simonson, who said two used "high-top" ambulances, a 1973 and one 1974 model, were purchased for $18,000 from Taylor Motor. The Florence EMS unit, a 1966 Pontiac, was bought there for $850. The three new 1975 ambulances from Solar cost roughly $11,280 each.

Austin Savings comes to Georgetown

A second savings and loan institution is expected to be open in Georgetown in sixty or ninety days.

That was the prediction of Carl Lind, manager of the Austin Savings and Loan Association, which has been given the green light to open a branch office in this city.

Lind told the SUN his firm is "already in business in Georgetown. We have around $10,000,000 in Williamson County loans and approximately that many deposits," he said. "Georgetown is a good, growing area and we are excited that we will have an opportunity to share in and aid in its growth."

Lind added that several locations were under study and one would be picked in a short time.

Revenue sharing: No big problem in Georgetown

City and county officials were less than impressed by Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock's assertion this week that our local governments would have to drastically raise taxes just to keep afloat, should Congress fail to re-enact revenue sharing programs.

Bullock released a list showing the percentage of tax increase each county and city in the state would have to enact, to replace revenue sharing funds. According to his figures, Williamson County would have to increase its taxes by 30.7 per cent, and Georgetown would have to increase taxes 22.5 per cent.

The Comptroller estimated that Bartlett would have to increase city taxes 47.6 per cent, making it the hardest hit city in the county. Granger was only slightly better off, with a tax increase projected at 41.3 per cent. Other county figures were: Florence, 19.9 per cent; Hutto, 31.7; Round Rock, 30.5; Taylor, 30.7; Thrall, 27.4; and Cedar Park, 25.8.

But local officials weren't buying the estimates. "As far as the city of Georgetown is concerned," said Leo Wood, city manager, "we have thoroughly enjoyed revenue sharing — but we have not used the revenue sharing funds for our main city operating expenses. Revenue sharing funds are not even in our main budget — it's totally separated."

All of Georgetown's revenue sharing funds are funneled into capital improvement projects, according to Wood. "When revenue sharing was first instituted," he said "the mayor and the council stated that we did not want to get dependent on revenue sharing funds, and we have not gotten dependent on them. As far as having a situation where we would have to have a sudden

BILL MOYERS

"Sometimes he'd drive up and I'd be working in the fields in my overalls. He'd walk out and meet me and say: 'I wish you didn't have to work so hard!' — he really cared."

Mrs. Bohanan also remembers Moyers' ambition. "I didn't know quite why, but I just knew that he wouldn't stay a preacher," she said. "I felt like that from little things he and she would say. Once, Judy said something, and I thought, 'My, you have your sights set sort of high!' But she turned out to be right."

Bill Moyers remembers Weir as fondly as it remembers him. "Mostly, I remember the Sunday meals. We would be out from Austin and someone would always have us to their house for an incredible meal — everything fresh from the (Continued on Page 12)

the passing glance

By Don Scarbrough

I think we all ought to be delighted with the way the hospital fund drive has been going. It's fantastic!

THE TOTAL IS NOW about $410,000 and not one penny of foundation money is included. Drive chairman J. H. Compton still has his eye on several potential "big contributors" and is confident the campaign can be buttoned up before too long.

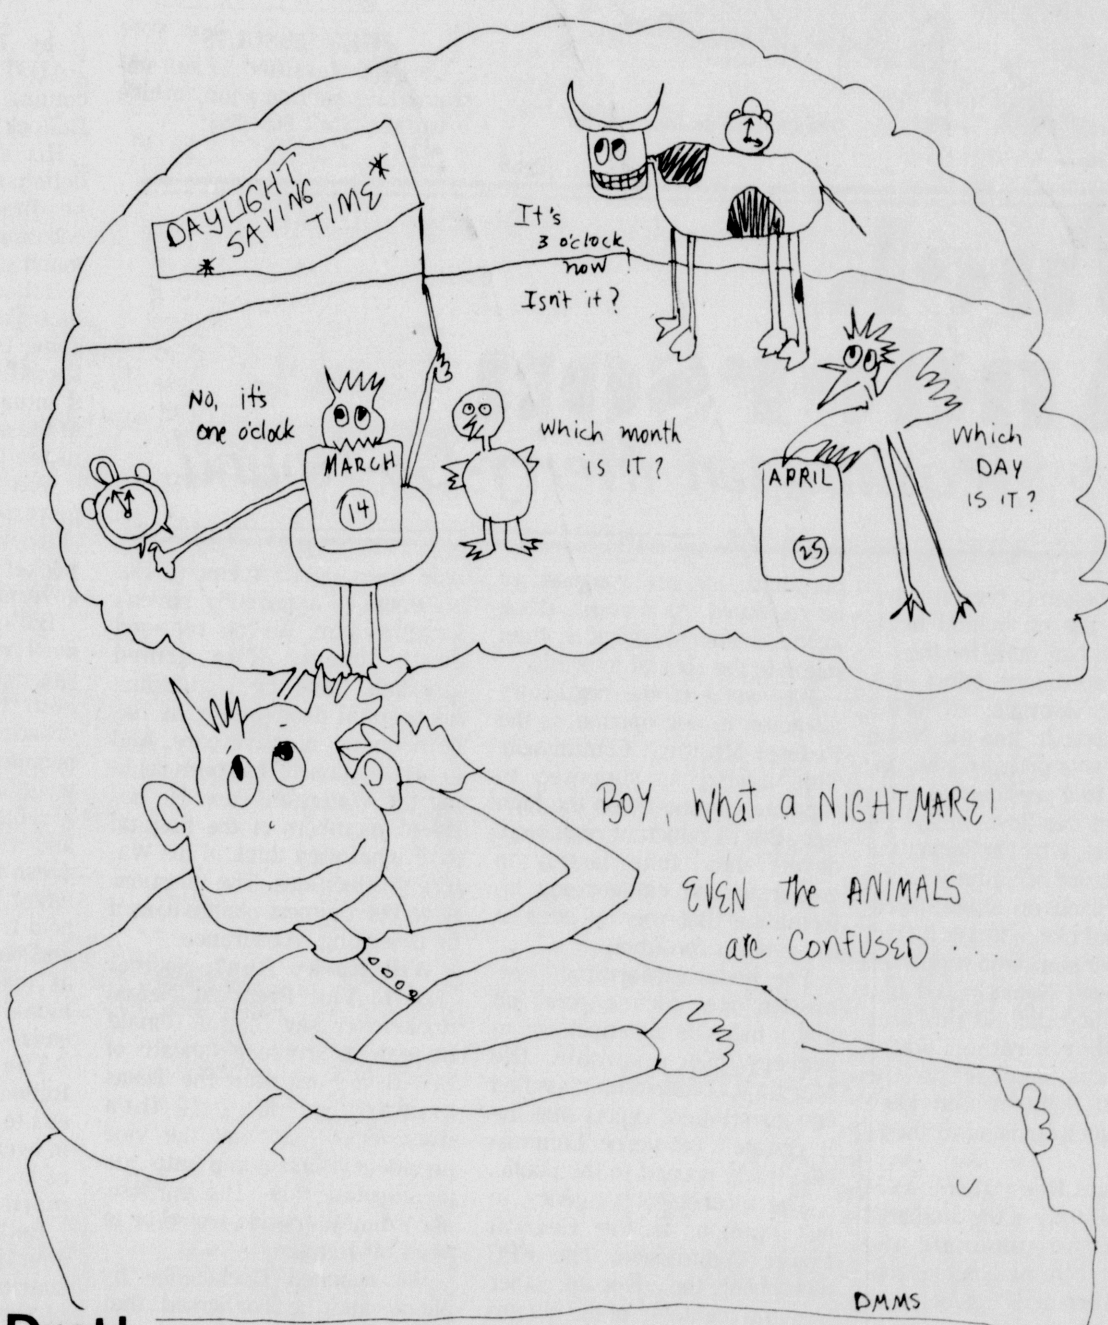

Compton pointed out that Georgetown had never before been called on to raise more than $100,000 for any project. "I was nervous," he admitted, "at the beginning of the drive. Now I am relaxed and confident!"

As our readers have been able to see on the front page of the SUN each issue, contributions are coming in from throughout and beyond the county, although the greater part of the money is being given by Georgetown people. It has been heartwarming and, I am sure, has become a source of pride and thanksgiving to our doctors. Soon they will have a facility large enough to take care of the area's ever-expanding needs for care to come.

Dr. Benold told me this week that the hospital we now have is overflowing and patients must be discharged when some would like to stay a while longer. "We have them (patients) even in the halls," he explained.

WE ALL KNOW, however, that the final few thousand dollars come slowly, so don't let up on your gift-giving. Even if we exceeded the budget, the money will go into the hospital for life-saving equipment.

Few people ever write and tell us what they like about the paper. In the Sunday Sun we use quite a few features from the TCSM service, such as the cartoon on page 2, and the story about the presidential campaign on page 3. How about dropping us a note and tell me how you like the Anderson or Harvey columns, our features from The Christian Science Monitor or anything else about the paper you would care to comment on. Your opinions give us something to work on.

Drat! Time and time again....

For those of us confused about when Daylight Savings Time (DST) really begins, here is the latest. Unless Congress moves faster than its customary snails' pace, DST will not begin again until Sunday, April 25. There had been talk, and even a proposed bill in Congress to extend it to eight months, beginning today (Sunday). This is what got us into trouble in Thursday's paper.

The Senate could still pass the bill, but the House is apparently more interested in taking campaign trips than saving money on energy, and has indicated they won't even get around to holding hearings until April.

Though it is probably impossible, we will now try to clarify the DST laws that brought all this about.

The Uniform Time Act of 1966, Public Law 89-387, established Daylight Savings Time (DST) from the last Sunday in April through the last Sunday in October of each year.

But seven years later, the Daylight Savings Act of 1973, Public Law 93-182, changed that system. It established DST year-round, for a two-year trial period.

But that wasn't the end of it, though. During that same 1973 session of Congress, Public Law 93-434 (The Emergency Daylight Savings Time Energy Conservation Act) amended the law to exempt the last Sunday in October of 1974 through the last Sunday in February of 1975 from the provisions of P.L. 93-182.

Simple, huh?

Well, that last law, and its amendment, expired in December, so now we're back to the old April to October system, until further notice.

Who's on first? We don't know.

City farmers—a growing breed

By David F. Salisbury

Boston City rooftops, patios, and vacant lots blooming with tomatoes, carrots, and cucumbers; the cackle of chickens blending with the din of rush hour traffic.

This is the goal of two agricultural researchers at the University of California at Berkeley, Heiga Olkowski and her husband, Bill. They are trying to help city dwellers transform urban wasteland into food-producing garden spots — an idea whose time may have come.

The couple have proven that city dwellers can grow their own food. For one year they lived entirely on the vegetables, chickens, and rabbits which they grew on the roof of their home and in their small yard.

"Our message is that this is possible, it is economical, it need not take too much time, and it has begun happening," Mrs. Olkowski says with conviction.

The two described their experience at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science being held here.

Other urban farmers were also present. They confirm the Olkowski's report that city garden plots are springing up in window boxes, yards, on rooftops, and in vacant lots around the country.

"When we started, we were getting handwritten letters scrawled on notepaper," says Stuart Liederman, who directs a garden project in St. Louis. "Now we receive requests for information from people with impressive letterheads."

There is more to this gardening renaissance than a taste for home-grown tomatoes and a desire to avoid high supermarket prices. Many of its organizers are environmental activists. They see the urban garden as the first step toward restructuring American life along ecological lines from the ground up.

Self-reliance is an important tenet in the urban gardener's creed. "When people begin gardening, they start to take a more active interest in the community," Mrs. Olkowski says.

In St. Louis, 50 vacant lots in the inner city were made into community gardens last summer. Mr. Liederman recounts his experience with the city dwellers, many of whom had never gardened before.

"We began by talking about gardening and recipes. Then they became curious about the effect which air pollution had on the plants. Now they are monitoring the air with their vacuum cleaners. With this data, they have gone to city hall and are demanding that traffic on their streets be restricted."

Despite the poor quality of the soil and the people's inexperience, the St. Louis gardeners got an average of $140 worth of produce in the first year, says Mr. Liederman.

Gardening requires skill, not a lot of time and labor, he and the Olkowskis say.

Another group, Ecology Action of the Midpeninsula in Palo Alto, is working with an intensive form of agriculture developed in France around the turn of the century. They report that they have grown four times more vegetables per acre than commercial farmers, while using half the water and only one percent of the energy.

According to Carter Schelling, one of the members of Ecology Action, it should be possible to raise all the food necessary to feed one person on a plot 50 feet by 20 feet.

One of the major uncertainties facing urban agriculturists is the effect of lead and cadmium in polluted city air. Recent reports indicate that this may make it unhealthy to eat too much city-grown food. However, preliminary studies done by the Institute For Local Self Reliance in Washington, D.C., find that while some city-grown food is contaminated, some is not — depending on local conditions.

This is one more reason why people should demand clean air, the city gardeners argue.

Paul Harvey

Are you watching the new dance called "The Congressional Shuffle"?

You start out on your left foot, shift to your right foot, then hop up and down on your right foot as conspicuously as possible.

There are probably 75 liberal Democrats who rode into Congress because you were mad at Nixon.

That Democrat landslide of '74 did not mean that you were suddenly all that liberal, it was just that you were reacting negatively to Watergate.

Now the Lou Harris Survey shows that you are more conservative than ever. A 43% plurality of Americans said they would like to see our country move in a more conservative direction.

So now those liberals on the Hill are suddenly hopping up and down on the "right" foot.

Nobody ever accused Eric Sevareid of being "reactionary" yet he's sounding like it.

Of welfare he says, "Our political system may be killing itself with kindness."

"What happened to New York can happen to the federal government even though it owns the printing press."

The governing concept used to be that almost everyone could learn to cope with life if the right improvements were made in his surroundings, his health, education, housing, job opportunities and so on.

"Now we have to face the concept of the residue — a great and growing number of people at the bottom who cannot rise because of something in them that neither governmental nor private institutions can do very much about."

"From now on," he says, "more government spending will have to be directed toward enterprises that are productive."

Thus this heretofore liberal spokesman defines some of the factors which are encouraging us to turn back — as Australia and New Zealand have turned back — toward encouraging the taxpayers.

Some freshman Democrats in Congress are so uncomfortable that they are begging the liberal Americans for Democratic Action not to publish their own liberal voting records.

History says the Democrats will lose 15 to 30 seats in Congress this year. Republican Steven Stockmeyer, executive director of the National GOP Congressional Committee, says "43 seats."

In their public utterances you are hearing heretofore liberal lawmakers talk about "fiscal responsibility," about "paying our bills," about "too much government in Washington," about "curtailing welfare."

The comfortable assumptions of 40 years have failed us. We have discovered that while goldbricks can vote they cannot carry their own weight.

Nor can we, indefinitely!

Stuart Long
Austin Notebook

by PATRICK CONWAY
AUSTIN — Not all the news coming from Comptroller Bob Bullock's office is good.

His swashbuckling raids on delinquent taxpayers capture headlines, but some of his economic forecasts should command even larger type.

Bullock has already warned that the Texas Legislature is going to be faced with a huge tax bill when it meets in 1977 if it intends to continue spending at the same increase rate it has in the past.

Now Bullock has had bad news for the folks around the state who have to dig into their pockets to keep city and county government going.

Bullock said that if Congress does not extend the revenue sharing program, city halls and courthouses will have to drastically reduce the services people want or taxes will have to be increased.

"Highfalutin debate on pros and cons of revenue sharing doesn't mean a thing to the taxpayer," Bullock noted. "The cold truth is that in most cities and counties, he'll have to pay at least 20 per cent more in local taxes if the program ends."

The Figure Filberts at Bullock's office put their pencils to work on the tax situation in every county and city in Texas and they came up with a dismaying report.

Bullock announced that 68 counties depend on revenue sharing for 30 per cent or more of their income, 102 get 20 to 29.9 per cent of their income from Washington and 84 receive up to 19.9 per cent.

The counties depending heavily on revenue share are generally located in the Rio Grande Valley, South Central Texas and along the Louisiana border.

A spot check of counties around the state shows that if revenue sharing goes down the drain taxes will have to be increased 19.9 per cent in Bexar, 28 per cent in Anderson, 19.1 per cent in Bowie, 29.7 per cent in Cherokee, 22.2 in Bell, 10 per cent in Dallas, 23.5 in El Paso, 18.8 in Grayson, 21.1 in Gregg, 26.5 in Harrison, 27.6 in Henderson, 10.6 in Lubbock, 10.3 in Midland, 13.1 per cent in Tarrant, 20.7 per cent in Taylor, 18.9 per cent in Tom Green, 11.2 per cent in Travis, 23.1 in Victoria, 18 per cent in Wichita, and 16.4 per cent in Denton.

Those increases would be necessary just to continue county spending at the current level

Editorials

Bunk from Bullock

Comptroller Bob Bullock's statement that Georgetown taxes would have to be increased by 21 per cent if Federal Revenue Sharing ends is bunk.

OUR CITY, obviously, would miss the big lump of money coming in every year, but at the outset our city leaders agreed that the money would not be included in the budget, but utilized for nonrecurring projects.

All of the Federal Sharing money thus far has gone for streets, mostly for topping and repairs. The grant amounts to approximately $50,000 a year and, admittedly, our streets have fewer bumps and potholes than at any time in mortal man's memory. Without the lump sum for this purpose, we might go back to the potholes, but there is no conclusive evidence to prove — ahead of time — that our city would spend the same amount of money on the same project if the government money is halted.

The SUN doesn't know what our County Commissioners would do if they lost the bonanza money. Considering their conservatism, however, we would not expect them to automatically increase taxes to offset the lost largess.

MAYORS THROUGHOUT the country are in Washington, besieging Congress to continue the Revenue Sharing Program, predicting a wave of financial disasters if it is stopped. They may be right, too, and we have to fault the federal government for the problem. To state, city and county governments, public schools, Washington was Santa Claus back in the 1960s, funding many wonderful schemes. Then federal money was cut in half and now most of it has been totally withdrawn, leaving the programs still going but at local expense. Many of these are admirable, wonderful programs — such as our own Stonehaven Center — but they would not have begun so auspiciously without federal funds. In the case of the Center, no federal funds go to it now but our city antes up $7,000 annually, a sum that the city, which has been operated on a progressive, intelligent and frugal manner for many years, can handle. The same pattern is seen in our schools, which began ambitious programs funded with federal greenbacks, now continuing at local expense. The states, too, are in the same predicament.

IT'S NO WONDER that a fellow like George Wallace appeals to so many Americans. "Why can't those people in Washington leave us alone?" he asked in a Boston speech Thursday night, and the crowd roared approval.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — The presidential candidates have been scrambling to find movie stars to brighten up their bandwagons. But so far, most Hollywood celebrities are turning their backs on politics.

Not even Frank Sinatra, the pal of politicians, is likely to hit the campaign trail this year. Privately, he favors his old friend Ronald Reagan. Sinatra's second choice, if Reagan should falter, would be Hubert Humphrey. But at this point, old blue eyes isn't anxious to campaign for anyone.

Reagan is expected to coax a few Hollywood stalwarts such as John Wayne and Jimmy Stewart onto his bandwagon. And singer Helen Reddy is trying to line up entertainers to support Humphrey.

Sargent Shriver, with his Kennedy glamor, has also managed to attract a few stars — among them Lauren Bacall, Carol Channing, Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward. Fred Harris is claiming the support of Carroll O'Connor and Dennis Weaver. And Henry Jackson has landed Bonanza's Lorne Greene. But most of the stars are ducking the 1976 campaign.

The reason, according to our Hollywood sources, is that Richard Nixon has left a bad memory. In 1972, Nixon arranged a timely, multimillion-dollar tax break for the movie industry. A Nixon aide immediately began to recruit stars, reminding the movieland brass what Nixon had done for them.

An extraordinary effort was made, for example, to bring Sammy Davis Jr. into the Nixon camp. He was promised an appointment to a presidential commission and was flown in style to Nixon rallies. Who can forget the famous picture of Sammy Davis hugging Nixon on stage? Well, Davis would like to forget it. And a lot of other stars who supported the disgraced Nixon would like to forget they did. So this time around, they'd rather watch their reruns, appear on the Hollywood Squares and keep their political opinions to themselves.

Reluctant Regulators: After a thorough study of the available evidence, we nominate the regulatory commissions as the worst government agencies in Washington.

They wield tremendous power. The Interstate Commerce Commission, for instance, can authorize billion-dollar mergers between great railroads. The Civil Aeronautics Board decides which airlines will get the choice routes. The Federal Power Commission fixes the rates that millions of consumers pay for electricity and natural gas.

These agencies were created to protect the public, but many of them have reversed their roles. They have been besieged by the lawyers and lobbyists of the corporations that are supposed to be regulated. As a result, these agencies often serve rather than regulate the special interests.

The worst of the regulatory agencies, in our opinion, is the Federal Maritime Commission. This agency is supposed to regulate commerce on the high seas. But its reluctant regulators devote their time largely to gathering and categorizing information that merely adds to the general confusion.

The Federal Maritime Commission does such a poor job that it hides its incompetence in secrecy. For example, the Maritime Commission classified one government report that the Interstate Commerce Commission freely opened to the public.

The second worst agency, in our opinion, is the Federal Power Commission. The FPC has become the advocate, rather than the regulator, of the big gas companies.

On January 28, for example, the FPC published a notice in the Federal Register announcing a fuel adjustment modification, which would benefit a major power company.

The FPC, of course, is supposed to protect the public. Yet the consumers were given only one day to challenge this latest benefit for the gas company. The FPC proclaimed that all protests had to be in by January 29, the very next day.

Judicial Giant: Two years ago, Time magazine selected Judge John Sirica as man of the year. He had been an obscure federal judge, son of an Italian immigrant. Yet this judge, of humble origins, stood up to the President of the United States.

Judge Sirica broke the Watergate case. He used his courtroom to find the truth and see that justice was done.

Today, he lies in a hospital bed, the victim of a severe heart attack. He has already started to fade from public memory. But his enemies haven't forgotten him. He has received death threats. Two armed marshals have been guarding his hospital door. Inside, he has been under intensive care. And in his isolation, he has been reliving the Watergate case. He has asked members of the hospital staff what they think of his Watergate decisions. The questions have been almost plaintive, as if he is seeking reassurance.

Will Rocky Run?: Sources close to Vice President Nelson Rockefeller say that if Ronald Reagan is running ahead of President Ford after the Texas primary on May 1, then Rockefeller may quit the vice presidency and jump into the presidential race. His purpose, according to friends, would be to head off Reagan.

We reached Rockefeller by phone and he confirmed that friends have urged him to get into the race against Reagan. But Rockefeller insisted he has no intention of taking on Reagan. Rockefeller said he is convinced Reagan has peaked and is heading downhill.

Fuddle Factory: The bureaucrats, who man the swivel chairs of Washington, bombard one another with memos in septuplicate. At the end of each day, more than 90 tons of wastepaper are picked up off the battlefield. This makes Washington the wastepaper center of the world.

Yet Washington has no large paper recycling programs. The General Services Administration issued regulations requiring that all paper used by the government must contain recycled fiber. But Congress, unnoticed by the press, immediately exempted paper used for "writing, copying and printing." Of course, this represents 95 per cent of all the paper used in Washington.

Employee of Month: nominated by you?

Remember the Saturday you were rushing through too many shopping chores, when one special store clerk showed an extra smidgen of personal concern for YOU, somehow making your day seem a little easier?

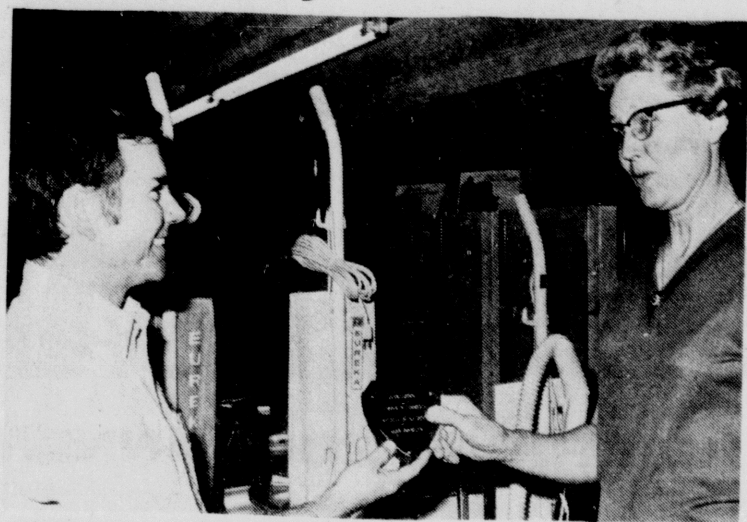

The Georgetown Chamber of Commerce wishes to recognize the too often well-remembered but uncomplimented employees of Georgetown who give our local businesses a personal touch.

ANYONE CAN nominate the employee of a Georgetown business for the honor of being named Chamber of Commerce Employee of the Month. While he or she must work in Georgetown, the nominee need not live within city limits.

The only restriction on nominations is that employers cannot name their own employee.

"If a person is chosen by more than one individual the board looks at that," Gene Martinka, Chamber manager, explained.

All nominations should be mailed to the Chamber, where each month the 15 directors will select one employee.

EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH ALICE DOERFLER receives a commemorative plaque from Chamber of Commerce director William H. Lueddecke. Mrs. Doerfler has been the bookkeeper at Henderson's Appliance and TV Sales and Service for 19 and a half years. Named the outstanding employee for the month of March by the Chamber, Mrs. Doerfler has been a Georgetown citizen for 26 years and is a lifelong resident of this area. She has five children — "all grown," she reports — and eight grandchildren. Her husband, Walter D. Doerfler, Sr., retired Friday after 20 years of work with the State Highway Department.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EMPLOYEE of the Month receives a wooden plaque with his name engraved on a metal plate, the year of his or her selections, and the honor, "Chamber of Commerce Employee of the Month."

In addition, public recognition is given through the picture and article about the month's chosen employee, which appears regularly in the SUN.

Dr. Peterson gives piano recital in Brownwood Methodist church

Sometimes when a musician desires to give his recital program the "right touch" and nothing suitable comes to mind when he is "pressed for time," he resorts to playing his own composition. To give added flavor, he "sneaks in" a composition by his former piano teacher to "round out" the program.

Such is the case with Dr. Ellsworth Peterson, well-known musician and musicologist in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, who will be presented in an organ/piano recital in honor of the country's bicentennial celebration at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Central Methodist Church in Brownwood.

PETERSON WILL BE playing a program of "Variations on American Themes," including a spiritual entitled "Let us break bread together," which he composed in 1958 while a student at Union Theological Seminary in New York and studying organ with Robert Baker, and a composition by Iola Bowden Chambers (currently of Brownwood and formerly a member of the music faculty in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University for 33 years), an organ setting of a camp meeting tune, "Home in Glory," which he took down in 1936 and arranged in the 1940's. Peterson studied piano with Mrs. Chambers for 10 years, beginning in his early years and continuing through his collegiate career at Southwestern University.

The program also includes works of John Knowles Paine, Virgil Thomson, James Hewitt, Charles Grobe, Samuel Barber and Charles Ives.

A NATIVE OF GEORGETOWN. Peterson holds a bachelor of music degree from Southwestern University, a master of sacred music degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York, and a master of arts and Ph.D. degrees in musicology from Harvard University. Peterson has studied with such composers as Randall Thompson, Walter Piston, Samuel Walter, and others. Joining the music faculty in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University in 1965 as the Margaret Root Brown Professor of Fine Arts, Peterson serves as the chairman of the music department.

In addition to his teaching duties, Peterson is organist and choirmaster at the First Methodist Church in Georgetown. He has served as organist and choirmaster in churches in Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York. He has appeared frequently in recitals in various sections of the country.

IOLA BOWDEN CHAMBERS (Mrs. Walter R. Chambers), an accomplished and gifted pianist and organist with an enviable reputation in the areas of teaching and performing, has appeared in concerts in various sections of the country. A graduate of Southwestern University with a bachelor of arts in music and a bachelor of fine arts degrees; Daniel Baker College with a graduate diploma, and the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music with a master of music degree and graduate study, Mrs. Chambers (then Miss Iola Bowden of May) joined the music faculty at Southwestern University in 1933 and retired in 1966.

A piano pupil of Homer Nearing, Weldon Carter, Carlos Buhler, and Karin Dayas, Mrs. Chambers also studied with Dr. H. E. Meyer, dean emeritus of the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University. Mrs. Chambers also taught piano at Breckenridge and Baylor University. She is the author of numerous articles in the field of music and has made many appearances on radio as well as the concert stage.

ACTIVE IN STATE and national music circles, Mrs. Chambers has served as faculty adviser of Delta Omicron, international professional music fraternity, as province music adviser for the organization, has appeared as soloist at international conferences, as pianist on numerous occasions, and is the recipient of awards from Delta Omicron for her contributions in the field of music. Among her hobbies is the collecting of folk songs.

For more than 20 of the 33 years that she spent at Southwestern University as a member of the music faculty, Mrs. Chambers served as organist at the First Methodist Church in Georgetown and, after moving to Brownwood with her husband, she has served as organist in the Methodist Church there, as well as continuing private instruction in piano for students in the area and concertizing.

The daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Bowden of May and Austin, Mrs. Chambers is the widow of the late Walter R. Chambers of Brownwood, a well-known educator.

Cerebral palsy campaign march begins Monday

Mrs. J. W. Roberts will serve as residential chairman for the United Cerebral Palsy (UCP) of Texas campaign for funds, beginning here the first of March. The announcement of Mrs. Roberts' appointment was made by UCP County Chairman Dr. James L. Shepherd.

Mrs. Roberts said the campaign will involve residents, business and industry, professional and community organizations, along with house-to-house solicitations in support of the UCP agency's programs of service for children and adults with cerebral palsy, and their families.

Mrs. Roberts will oversee the recruitment of volunteers and the general organization of the fund drive. She has called on all residents of Georgetown to call 863-2997 and to offer their services.

Marchers are still needed for University Avenue and side streets.

We offer immense satisfaction to everyone who serves in this campaign," Mrs. Roberts declared. "Whatever assignment the volunteer undertakes," she said, "he or she can be assured of assisting us to provide — and increase — vital services for the cerebral palsied in Georgetown.

Area chairmen who will be calling for volunteers within their neighborhoods are: Kay Patterson, Dorothy Bohanan, Elizabeth Taylor, Violette Hundley, Linda Collins, Penny Draeger, Linda Braun, Betty Wagner, Bill Hill, Neal Boydston, all of Georgetown; Larry Ashby, Ginger Yeary and Teresa Burran of Weir; Linda Berry of Liberty Hill; and Gay Jenkins, Dorene Holmstrom of Jonah.

"We will be enlisting the help of our young people of Georgetown in assembling the materials for the house-to-house campaign," Mrs. Roberts said.

Compton, fund drive chairman, accepted the check donated in memory of Flinn's mother, Sally Mankins Flinn. She was born in a log cabin east of Georgetown in 1872, and her father, Flinn's great grandfather, settled and was the namesake for Mankin's Crossing.

Child center has openings

The Head Start Program operates eight hours a day, five days a week, through the year.

The center based Head Start program serves children of low-income families where the mother is working, in school, ill, absent or otherwise unable to care for the children at home. We also serve handicapped children.

The center will have approximately 40 openings beginning August 2 for children 3, 4 or 5 years of age.

SCOUTING'S 66th ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATED IN THE SPIRIT OF '76 ON THE OCCASION OF AMERICA'S 200th ANNIVERSARY

INVOLVED PARENTS — Cubmaster Larry Glave (right) also recognized parents involved in the scouting program at the banquet. Those receiving awards were Sarah Miranda, Dale Shuffield, Rita Waggoner, and Kathy McCoy.

Draeger welcomes new sales employee

"We liked Georgetown and decided Georgetown is where we wanted to live and raise our kids," recalled Fred Morsbach, a recent addition to the sales staff of Draeger Motor Company, Inc.

An area resident since June, 1974, Morsbach began selling new and used cars at Draeger Motor Company last November.

The Morsbach family moved to the Georgetown area from Houston, where the new salesman had worked for seven years as assistant administrator of the Ben Taub General Hospital.

Mrsbach, 40, lives in Walburg with his wife Jeri and their three children: Erich, 12; Juli, 8, and Kurt, 6. The family are members of Zion Lutheran Church in Walburg.

Jeri Morsbach operates The Emporium, located at Southwestern Plaza Shopping Center.

Morsbach is a member of the Georgetown Optimist Club.

CRUISE IN THE OFF-SEASON

Although most people prefer to take their cruise during the peak of the season for all the glamour, excitement, and crowds it offers, others enjoy the quiet and restfulness of the off season cruise. Tourists are not present in such great numbers; interesting places can be visited more leisurely and at greater length.

Some people prefer to pray only when they are in church or at some great public gathering where the prayers are led for them. But our Lord said to pray in the "off-season." He said, "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." The real joys of prayer are truly found when you are praying alone with God. The scripture says to be instant in season and out of season.

The church would encourage you to pray both in church and at home. Prayer can uphold, support, and strengthen our churches, ourselves, and our country.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

STONEHAVEN CENTER NEWS

by ISABELLE PARKER
Next Sunday, February 29, will be Senior Citizen's Day in our churches. The needs and potentialities of our older people will be highlighted.

Transportation will be furnished by the churches. Anyone wanting transportation, please call the church of your choice or any church will see that you are able to attend. You must call for transportation or let someone know.

This will be an opportunity to fellowship together with others on this special occasion. Georgetown Chapter of AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) and the Georgetown Ministerial Alliance is sponsoring the day.

The dates set for Stonehaven Center's Annual Rummage Sale are Friday, March 5, 8:30 - 5:00 p.m. and Saturday, March 6, 8:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. We would appreciate our friends bringing good used clothing for men, women and children, household articles and anything saleable. There will be a bedding plant sale and a baked goods sale along with the rummage sale. Bring your rummage and come and buy.

Mrs. Lena Womack's daughter was hostess at a lovely birthday party in honor of her mother. The decorations were in pastel colors and many friends of Mrs. Womack came from Georgetown, Austin, Florence and Andice to offer congratulations.

Mrs. Bess Greene was pleasantly surprised when her daughters and a granddaughter came to lunch and spent the day.

A. D. Barrow of Austin lunched with Gracie Young last week and Mrs. Young went to Austin with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Burson to attend the birthday party of her great niece, Teresa Brooks.

Evelyn Cummins is in Round Rock with her daughter, Alta. Mrs. Cummins daughter underwent an operation last week.

Mrs. Dovie McSpadden's guest last week was her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Leroy McSpadden of Leander.

Car registration easier than ever

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT) reminds Georgetown that application for new motor vehicle registration plates is more simple in Texas this year than it has been at any time since World War II.

Instead of new metal plates DHT is issuing validation stickers to be applied to the upper left-hand corner of the rear plate issued last year. An adhesive on the back of the sticker, the department claims, foils removal of the sticker by would-be thieves — or motorists who foul up the instructions for application.

For the fact that the validation procedure is simplicity itself is followed by a series of errors Texas motorists have made in applying the stickers.

GEORGETOWNITES are having their share of trouble but no real cause for concern has been reported — unlike the problem faced by the motorist with four vehicles. He paid for four registrations. Next he applied the four stickers to the front and rear plates of two cars. Then he read the instructions.

ONLY ONE sticker is needed, to be applied to the left-hand corner of the rear plate. The motorist had to return to his KATHLEEN PAYNE, a three-year resident of Cedar Park, buys a replacement license plate and validation sticker as Highway Department Deputy Dorothy Jones of Jarrell shows her the proper placement of the sticker. Validation stickers should be placed in the upper left-hand corner of the rear license plate issued last year. Lost plates or stickers may be replaced for a $1.30 fee when the original receipt is presented in the county tax assessor-collector office.

tax-assessor-collector to buy two additional stickers. Mrs. Dorothy Jones, the Texas Highway Department deputy working in the tax office in Williamson County's courthouse, says mixups when motorists switch their pickup and passenger vehicle stickers seem to be the common problem for county motorists.

This year all receipts and stickers are identically colored. "They're all the same — it just says on them what they are for," Mrs. Jones explains why the stickers are so easily reversed.

WE'VE GOT a motorcycle sticker on a travel trailer right now," she worries, saying the office is trying to contact the owner of the travel trailer. Because the receipt forms do look alike it is just as easy for her office to make an error as it is for the motorist — especially, she adds, "When we are real busy helping several customers at once."

And she remembers one Leander man who, after receiving his red, white and blue validation sticker, protested, "You only gave me one sticker."

"Yes, sir, that's all you need," the highway deputy explained.

"MY FRIEND lives in Austin and he got two," the Leander citizen continued his plaint, insisting that he would need a second sticker.

"You'd better tell your friend to go back to the courthouse because something is wrong," Mrs. Jones staunchly supported what she knew to be correct procedure, adding, "I'll swear on a stack of Bibles: you only need one sticker."

The Bibles turned the tide. "Yes m'am," the customer gave in. "I believe you. God bless you."

THE ONLY COMPLAINT Mrs. Jones has concerns the total sales to date.

"I wish more would come in," she said. "I imagine we are 25 percent — at least — behind in our sales, from where we were last year."

Although her office is periodically rushed by Williamson County motorists stopping by to purchase their validation stickers, or to purchase replacement license plates in addition to the stickers, Mrs. Jones anticipates an unmanageable last-minute rush if too many vehicle owners wait until the April 1 deadline to buy their plates.

Motorists can buy their stickers through the mail for an additional $1 covering postage and handling.

ELSEWHERE in the state, as well as in Louisiana where the validation-sticker system was also initiated this year, there have been some almost unbelievable foul-ups by otherwise intelligent motorists.

One Corpus Christi citizen was very careful to put the validation sticker in the proper position on the rear plate — except that the plate was on his neighbor's car. Both vehicles, parked side by side, were red.

In Amarillo a motorist paid for his sticker and immediately went to the parking lot of the county courthouse. He applied the sticker to the rear license plate — of the vehicle owned by the assistant county tax assessor-collector. Same make, same model, same color — wrong car.

One woman who received her sticker in the mail wanted to see how well the "stickum" on the back worked. She put it on the kitchen table. It worked fine. She scraped off the pieces — and part of the finish on the table — and returned them to the tax collector for replacement.

Another woman laid her sticker on the kitchen table. Her young son picked it up and put it on his bicycle.

THEN THERE WAS the motorist who went back to his tax assessor-collector's place, mad. Angriily he displayed a sticker almost obliterated with holes. "I'm having a (deleted) time stapling this (deleted) thing to my metal plate," he fumed. The information "staple here" is information for the collector's office, indicating where to attach the sticker to the registration receipt. He got a new sticker — and new instructions.

The Motor Vehicle Division of the DHT therefore sends a reminder or two for those of you who have yet to face the easiest license validation maneuver since World War II.

• Read the instructions for applying your sticker. The instructions are available both in English and Spanish.

• If you lose it up, carefully scrape off all the sticker and put the pieces in an envelope.

• Take the sticker piece with your registration receipt to the county tax assessor-collector's office or substation.

• Take along $1.30 for the replacement fee for each new validation sticker.

• If you need a new five-year license plate, take another $1.10 to buy a plate to stick your sticker on.

• Now, have you got that? Not, re-read the instructions.

Jess Humphries rites Tuesday

Jess Edwin Humphries, age 87, passed away Sunday night, February 22, 1976, in a Burnet hospital following a lengthy illness. He was born February 18, 1889, in Texas. He was a member of the Liberty Hill Methodist Church, a 50 year member of the Liberty Hill Masonic Lodge, a 50 year member of the American Legion, a Veteran of World War I, a well known fiddler of Texas, and a retired rural mail carrier.

Mr. Humphries is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Gene (Kathryn) Russell of Burnet; one son, William O. Humphries of Staunton, Illinois; two sisters, Mrs. Velma Whitted of Liberty Hill, and Mrs. Agnes Allgood of Port Arthur; three brothers, John Humphries of Houston, Bennie Humphries of Port Aransas, and Charles Humphries of Ballinger; 7 grandchildren; 4 great grandchildren; other relatives and close friends. Humphries was preceded in death by one son, Dick, in 1972; his wife, Mrs. Cynthia Humphries, in 1973; one great granddaughter passed away Monday morning.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, February 24, at 2 p.m. in the Liberty Hill Methodist Church with Reverend H. C. Newman and Father Leon Boarman officiating. Masonic graveside services were conducted by the Liberty Hill Masonic Lodge. Interment was in the Liberty Hill Cemetery under the direction of the Edgar Funeral Directors of Burnet.

Pallbearers were Sam Miller, B. Pogue, Ralph Stubblefield, Joe Wentercek, Nick Theobald, Bud Barrington, and Cecil Myers.

Simonson gives talk

County Ambulance Director James Simonson spoke to the newly formed Super Southwestern University Physical Education and Recreation Club Wednesday night at the Student Union building.

Discussing emergency care and transportation of the sick and injured, Simonson demonstrated the proper method of placing an injured person on a stretcher, showing the college students how to find a pulse and check that a person is still breathing.

USING THE GEORGETOWN unit of the County Emergency Medical Service, Simonson displayed the equipment every ambulance technician must use to give the group an overall picture of what the ambulance attendant does and is responsible for.

Simonson's discussion, the first regular program of the year, marks membership drive activities for the new group.

The March 11 program will feature a talk by Baylor University's Dr. Evelyn Kappes on "The Graduate Student in Physical Education."

Winger files for Council

J.D. WININGER

Hello, everyone, I am J. D. Winger, your City Councilman.

On Saturday, April 3, you will elect a mayor and two councilmen to serve you. I am asking for your vote to allow me to serve you two more years.

Georgetown is a great place to live. I know, because I have lived here 66 years. I am ready, willing, and able to serve all its people, and my record as Councilman speaks for itself.

So don't forget Saturday, April 3, 1976. Please be sure to vote.

★ Brother Bill

garden and home baked. I have very strong memories of those days.

"Irene Bohanan always graced my Christmas stockings with wonderful sugar cookies. I have always said, when Irene Bohanan gets to heaven, she will be in charge of sugar cookies for the rest of eternity."

Lena King, who Moyers remembered as one of his dearest friends, was very simple in her praise of the preacher. "I just thought he was mighty fine," she said. "I think I told him one time that I loved him more than any other preacher." Mrs. King celebrated her 95th birthday on Wednesday.

While Brother Bill, as the Weir Baptists called him, was ministering to the needs of his parishioners in Weir, he was serving the same function in Shiloh. He was also working a 40-hour week at KTBC in Austin and attending the University of Texas full-time.

"I always had doubts about being a minister," he now says. "I resolved those doubts by getting into the University of Texas' doctorate program in American Studies, but then Johnson called me, and I went to work for him."

"I never felt well suited to the ministry. There were, for instance, several people in Weir with deep emotional needs. I just wasn't equipped to deal with them. I felt so puny. But while I've never regretted giving up the ministry, these two churches — in Weir and Shiloh — were very special to me."

Last year, I took my children to Texas. I wanted them to see this part of Williamson County, to meet old friends. I introduced them around, and I believe that my children were really impressed. There is something primary — very basic — about these people in Weir.

"Williamson County was for me, the beginning of the West, with all of its openness, with its expansiveness. One characteristic you cannot separate from the West is its expansiveness, its 'Welcome, stranger,' its 'Come on in, sit down, have dinner with us.'"

Would Bill Moyers, who has traveled through 43 countries and seen more of the United States than most traveling salesmen ever return to Texas?

"I may very well do that some day. I'd like to live in Texas," he said. "But I'm not really planning it. I'm not the kind of person who plans what I do. But when I do go back to Texas — and we return four or five times a year — I won't go back to the life I once knew."

What, in his constant travels around America, does Moyers view as the United States' most pressing problem? "What I hear people talking about is the need to recover a sense of the Republic as a vital, living thing," he said. "My generation of the 1950's was so caught up with material desires that we lost the precious sense of a civic self."

"Vietnam finished off the liberals. Watergate finished off the conservatives. The last decade has made it impossible for most people to believe in anything; there is nothing for us to hold on to. Our task, in the next 25 years, is to knit back the fabric of the nation — to take 250 million unbridled egos and create a whole society, without submerging those egos, like China does."

"We have to do one more thing. This is going to be a real jolt to most Texans, but we're going to have to learn to live with scarcity, by standards of today. We have to learn that more is not better; bigger is not better."

"The Tom Bohanans have known this for years, although they might not think of it in those terms. People in Weir have been living with simplicity for years. We are all going to have to learn a quality of life that does not consume as much of the world's energy as we now do."

"Reading a book, or strolling around the block doesn't take nearly as much energy as riding around town in a car — the form of leisure that used to be popular in Marshall. We've never stopped, in our country, to define enough. The Bohanans, other people in that part of the country have understood these things all along — they always baked their own bread, churned their own butter, raised their own meat — they've always appreciated the simple things in life."

Finally, we took our leave of Brother Bill. What, we asked, would you have done if you had never landed that crucial job with Lyndon Johnson?

"Oh..." he leaned back and grinned. "I would either have been running a newspaper in Texas or I might have been a Congressman from Texas. Even more likely, I would have been a defeated politician from Texas!"

★ Revenue sharing

budget for 1975-76, which is the basic operating budget, was $2,455,000. The community development budget, which is composed of block grant funds, and is being used to construct the water intake system, was $228,000.

"The important thing," says the city manager, "is that we like revenue sharing programs, yes, but we wouldn't fall apart at the seams so that we would have to go to a quick tax if they weren't available. We could certainly get by without having a tax increase."

"What Bullock is saying, I think, is that a lot of people have become totally dependent on revenue sharing, and if the funds are withdrawn, they will have serious problems. But that's not the case here."

At the county level, where Bullock projects a 30.7 per cent tax increase should sharing funds disappear, county auditor Ben Kurio commented: "Just off hand his figures sound high, but I couldn't really say until we've studied the exact figures in the budget."

★ County pays $156,811

tract repayment cost to the county of $32,999.05. Total expenditures of approximately $54,356.33 were offset by $21,342.44 in collections, raising the cost per call to $61.42 in Taylor. Of the total 885 ambulance runs made there, 327 were emergencies, 521 involved transfers of patients and 37 were "Signal 66's."

The report shows a net loss of $24,919.55 repaid by Williamson County to Round Rock city coffers. The average cost per call there ran a county high of $113.57 — computed by dividing the $31,568.92 total expenditures by the 278 total calls made in Round Rock in 1975. Total calls consisted of 129 emergency, 91 no transfer and 58 no transport ambulance runs. Collections reported by the Round Rock station for 1975 amounted to $6,649.37.

WITH TOTAL EXPENDITURES of $21,469.77 and $2,919.34 in collections, Cedar Park was repaid $18,640.87 for the money that city spent on county EMS in 1975. Average cost per call for the year was $53.61 with a total 346 calls having been made in Cedar Park. The figure includes 224 emergency runs, 15 transfer calls and 107 no transports.

While no payment has been made to the Florence station, a total 45 calls — all emergency runs — were made there in 1975.

ANOTHER MAJOR capital outlay, in addition to the six ambulances purchased with county funds, is the communications equipment obtained through Boutwell Aviation and Electronics.

Four base stations and eight mobile units cost the county $6,993.85. The base stations are located in Georgetown, Taylor, Round Rock and Cedar Park. Mobile units were purchased for installation in the eight county ambulances: two each in Georgetown and Taylor and one each in Florence, Cedar Park and Round Rock. The eighth unit is installed in the vehicle Simonson maintains as a supply ambulance, kept ready in case of a mass-injury situation.

BID CONTRACTS were made to obtain medical supplies from four companies: Dynamed, Inc., $2,878.38; Northwest Equipment Company, $2,262.55; Rescue Products, $182.94; Rockford Safety Equipment, $22.96. Additional medical supplies were bought from City Pharmacy for $123.86.

The six EMS stations and offices throughout Williamson County compiled a total phone bill of $2,250 in 1975.

Other outstanding expenses fall into the basic categories of gasoline and oil purchases, parts and repairs, supplies and office record forms and other miscellaneous purchases.

City wins Holloman case

The Texas State Supreme Court apparently ended the legal battle between the City of Georgetown and construction contractor F. E. Holloman on Wednesday when it refused for the second time to issue a writ of error against a previous decision favoring the City.

Holloman contracted with the City in November of 1971 to build a sewer loop around the eastern rim of Georgetown, but trouble arose when he claimed he had encountered rock formations which would delay the construction project.

The city hired another contractor to finish the project after Holloman was granted an eight months' extension, and he filed a court action against the city for $117,000, alleging the city had contemplated confiscation of his equipment and had illegally terminated its contract with him.

The city filed a cross-action alleging breach of contract, and was awarded $69,526.23 in Judge Kirby Vance's 26th District Court. That judgment was upheld by the state's Third Court of Civil Appeals at Austin on July 30, 1975.

Holloman's attorney requested that the state Supreme Court issue a writ of error against the Civil Court judgment on October 14, 1975, and the City filed a reply to the request on October 29.

The Court refused the request on December 31, saying it found no reversible error in the Civil Court decision, and Holloman's attorney filed again on January 15, asking the court to rehear his motion for writ of error.

That request was refused Wednesday, exhausting Holloman's legal appeals in Texas.
